ComInnex is a chemistry service organization with strong interest and background in the development of chemical technologies. The company offers flexible business models, delivers a superior added value and provides the highest customer satisfaction and return on investment to all its partners. Our management and scientists have over 20 years experience in offering custom chemistry, chemical library development and synthesis, project management, and customer service. In a world where there are an abundance of CRO companies, we are able to offer truly unique services and compound libraries through technology coupled with dedication and flexible business models.
